environmental compliance & consulting

Linebach ■ Funkhouser manages GE's daily environmental compliance.

Since the 1950's, GE Consumer Products Appliance Park has been one of the largest appliance manufacturing facilities in the world. At one time employing approximately 25,000 workers during its peak production, the facility currently employs 6,000 workers, encompasses a sprawling 1,000 acres, and has its own zip code. Five manufacturing buildings produce washers, dishwashers, and refrigerators, which are sent to a 5 million square-foot storage/shipping warehouse. Support facilities include a water treatment plant, steam production, vehicle maintenance, and a 4-acre storm water retention pond.

Complying with federal state and local permitting requirements associated with air, water, and waste emissions from Appliance Park is a daunting task, one which LFI's professionals have handled successfully on a daily basis at the site for over 7 years and counting.

The services provided to GE include obtaining air and water permits, preparing and submitting reports, managing hazardous waste disposal, oversight of wastewater treatment operations, emergency spill response and cleanup management, oversight of storm water management operations, implementation and oversight of various compliance and environmental management systems, support management in process changes, and other similar types of environmental management activities.

Experience Matters.

LFI provides on-site environmental staff and technical experts for the day-to-day management of the facility's environmental compliance. LFI has provided expertise to GE since 2003, and was selected by GE in a competitive process over national engineering firms.
